

Moose Jaw's Tree of Significance

Canada's official National Tree Day is an annual event held in the third week of September, which is National Forest Week. To commemorate this event the City of Moose Jaw's Parks and Recreation Department wants to recognize the trees of significance in Moose Jaw.

Is there a tree in Moose Jaw that you feel other residents should know about?

Let us know why you think the tree is special:

- Is it because of its size and shape?
- Does it have a historical significance?
- Is it a rare species for this region?
- Is it unusual or interesting in some way?

Trees nominated should be accessible to the public such as in the front or side yards, public or institutional spaces.
